Dedication

The Yearbook Staff is pleased to dedieate the 2013-2014 yearbook to the wonderful Linda Hampton. Whether or not you've seen her hard work around the sehool over the past 25 years, Linda has been working hard to make sure Rowland Hall always runs smoothly. Born and raised in Kansas City, Missouri, she is a huge fan of the Kansas City Chiefs. A great guardian to international student Tianxing Jin, she balanees looking after Jin with her many long hours at sehool. She loves Daehshunds and has a daehshund of her own ealled Diesel. Without the inspirational Linda Hampton, Rowland Hall would not be able to function.

Convocation

Convocation is an annual tradition where the Beginning, Lower, Middle, and Upper Schools come together and celebrate our community. Headmaster Alan Sparrow reminded us of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s activism, as this year was the 50th anniversary of King's "I Have a Dream" speech. Student Body President Peishen Zhou followed and talked about his coming of age experience at Rowland Hall. In addition, Trace Browning told us the words of the school's founder Bishop Tuttle and gave us renewed inspiration going into the new year.

The winter trimester play this year was Harvey, written in the early 1940s, which centers around a man named Elwood P. Dowd (played by Christian Earl) and the people around him. Seemingly typical Elwood can see an invisible six foot tall taking rabbit, named Harvey. The plot features a comedy of errors, in which Elwood's sister, Veta (played by Ailish Harris), is wrongly committed to a sanitarium instead of him.

New Zealand Exchange

For the last five years, Rowland Hall has been doing a one-month exchange program with St. Peters School in Cambridge, New Zealand. The exchange students go to class and experience life in America in January while our Rowland Hall students travel to New Zealand in August to go to school and explore life in a different country. This year, we had five Kiwi's come to America in January; Jeff Wise, Brac Epps, Alex Benefield, Breanna McPherson, and Madelaine Livingstone. In the summer, five Rowland Hall students will fly to New Zealand: Marley Griffiths, Maddy Lee, Nicole Wozniak, Tyler Macintyre and Henry Gilbert.

Ms. Howard will unfortunately be leaving to join the Madeleine Choir School faculty next year. She has taught Latin in the Upper School since 2002. Students have learned everything from Caesar to nominative cases, and we'll be sure to miss her. Thank you, Ms. Howard, we will miss you!

This year's Battle of the Classes had some surprising outcomes, although it ended with the seniors in first place, juniors in second, freshmen third, and sophomores in last. The first day, each class competed in flag football, which ended in a tie between sophomores and seniors. The second day, Olympic Day, juniors took first place by winning ping pong and sumo wrestling. However, freshmen took first place in knockout. The juniors took first with their music video on Wednesday. On Thursday, seniors destroyed the rest in the Quiz Bowl. Finally, seniors clinched first place with an amazing mash-up lip sync.

With seniors Drew Dischmann, Harry Stone, Tristian Melnnis, Brandon Mikuriya, Jamen Christensen, and Spencer Jordan, the team started off slow but had a hot streak in the second half of the season. The team got a new coach, Victor Sandoval, who will be staying with the team for years to come. The softball team played hard this spring. Although they had a smaller team, they still pushed ahead when the going got tough. The team was led by captains, seniors Sonia Grunwald and Silvia Padilla. The team has grown closer and used their teamwork to win a handful of games. The players have greatly improved their skills from the beginning of the season. Along with their regular season games, the team hosted their annual "Swing for Life" tournament, which raises money for breast cancer research. Congratulations on a great year!

Soccer

The soccer team did well this year, taking second place in region and carrying momentum into the playoffs. Led by senior captain Enzo Wiener and seniors Kyle Baranko, Junior Zoutomou, Teddy Janes, Lucius Bynum, Aidan Rasmussen, Michael Thompson, and Sam Stark-Loyning, the team broke in the new Steiner fields with many victories. In addition to the many veterans, they had good younger players that will keep the program successful. Coach Bobby Kennedy returned to coach the team with Scott Langone.

This year's boys' tennis team had a competitive season, battling with their rival Waterford. As the team approaches Region and State, they are in position to be successful, thus far topping the leader board in region play. We wish them luck in the following match ups, hopefully leading to another state victory.

The largest team at Rowland Hall, Track and Field, put their numbers and talent to work this season. The team had outstanding performances at dual meets against large 5A sehools. Everyone contributed to the team with the aneient motto of the Olympies in mind: citius, altius, fortius (faster, higher, stronger). Many members of the team ranked top in the state in all classifications. Distance eaptains Emily Sundquist, Ryan Westermann, and Eli Oftedal also received the honor of attending the Areadia Invitational, the top track meet in the United States. This year the Rowland Hall track team has a great chance at winning its first ever region title and winning some hardware at the state track championships as well. 143

This year has been an awesome year for the girls' golf team. With five students on the team, the girls dominated their region, and won region championships.

Junior Grace Veghte and sophomore Caity Kwun made the all-state golf team and the team played well at State. With no seniors on the team, the girls' golf team will continue to improve and play better than ever next year!
